

ILM LEVEL FIVE CERTIFICATE IN LEADERSHIP & MANAGEMENT

(Potential grant available from the DESC)

Introduction

The ILM Level 5 Certificate in Leadership and Management develops leaders and managers within the Regulated Qualifications Framework. It provides a foundation for formal development and skills by building on existing knowledge and experience and by widening the outlook.

The programme is aimed at middle and senior managers. Typically, suitable candidates will have at least one tier of first-line managers between them and operational team members. While they may manage directly a small number of people, they will be accountable overall for larger numbers, and will usually have a greater responsibility for allocation of resources. They may report to senior management or to board level.

The content is relevant whether already working at that level or preparing for promotion. Regardless of current position, candidates should have a sound knowledge of leadership and management. The Certificate consists of an induction, four learning units, tutorial support, and an assessment process.

The main purpose of the qualification is to improve performance in key management skills, which for some participants is an end in itself. However, the qualification can also be a stepping stone to future personal development. Achievement of this nationally-recognised vocational qualification also makes candidates eligible for membership of the Institute of Leadership and Management at a minimum grade of Associate Member (AMInstLM).

The TLC programme delivers the learning modules over eight days of tutor-led learning (see page three for the schedule), although some work will be required outside this to prepare for sessions and for assessment. The units and the expected learning outcomes are described on page two of this guide.

The programme commences in November 2024. Places are limited.

How long will it take?

The Level 5 Certificate will run over a period of four months (see timetable on page three).

The TLC programme is primarily tutor-led, providing a valuable opportunity for work with a peer group. However, some flexibility can be allowed through the use of alternative learning methods. These can also be effective in fitting study around personal and work lives. Some 15 hours of guided self-learning will be required outside the tutor-led sessions.

Assessment

To gain the qualification, candidates will need to successfully complete four assignments providing evidence of learning and application in the workplace, and considering your own practice and how it can be developed. The assignments are assessed by TLC.

Programme Costs

The total price for this course will be £1,695 + VAT per person. This price includes the registration fee charged by the ILM to attend this programme. If you are eligible you can request a grant of 30% of the total price from the Department of Education, Sport & Culture. A guidance sheet on how to claim this grant is available from TLC.
